SISTERS DIED TOGETHER.

Found With Hands Clasped Together

by a Third Sister.

Dead, lying side by side on a cot and clasping each other's hand, were found the bodies of Mrs. Jane Sloan, aged sixty-five, and that of her sister, Sarah Lafferty, aged forty-five, yesterday when the house of the former at 809 Burns street, Philadelphia, was broken into at the request of a third sister, who was searching for Barah, who

The women died of precisely the same causes, Bright's disease and dropsy of the chest. These facts were ascertained by an autopsy. The case is one of the most singular that has ever been brought to the attention of the coroner.

had made her home with her.

PROFESSIONAL SPARRING

the Contests - Joe Bateman Succumbs to Glynn.

The Columbia Athletic Club last night

gave the people of Washington something decidedly new in the line of an athletic entertainment. Evidently on the theory that friendly sparring bouts of not more than I might be mistaken in the place. He went four rounds between amateurs have lost their powers of attraction to the local lovers 300 feet of the beach, and asked the men of athletics, the club concluded to offer their friends a purely professional sparring entertainment. The experiment was tried at the club house last night. It was a decided success financially. There were four events on the program—three of six rounds and one scheduled for eight rounds, but which really lasted but one very brief round. All the participants were professional prize fighters and the sparring was of a scientific and purishing order. The occasion marked if that was the port of Azua. As he understood them to say 'yes,' he started to come back to the ship, as I had ordered him not to land under any circumstances. There had gathered on the beach some twenty men and women, and when he had got some distance off, the soldiers, which the men proved to be, commenced to shoot at the boat and vessel. They shot Carl Smith in the thigh. The minie ball struck him on the fore part of the thigh, and came out about two inches above near his backbone. The mate received a flesh of athletics, the club concluded to offer and punishing order. The occasion marked the entry into the professional ranks of Joe Bateman, the pride of the George own sports and the prize boxer of the club. He entered the lists against a pugilist from Wilmington named Glynn and suffered a disastrous defeat, notwithstanding he had the advantages of height and reach over his opponent. The fight was full of ginger, and the local favorite did his best, showing great gameness under the terrible punishment he received, but the little lad from the city of fighters was too clever for him. Another surprise in store for the local talent was the humiliating defeat of Billy Young by Jack Daiy of Wilmington.

Baltimore Wins.

The first fight was between Brown of Wilmington, Del., and Lucy of Baltimore. The advantage of height and reach was with Brown, but otherwise they were well matched. Brown was the aggressor from the call of time, and Lucy cleverly evaded his rushes by running tactics. Brown was the first to lead, landing in the face with his right, but missing a wicked right. Lucy got in a good one on the wind, and the first round closed with no real hard blow struck. In the second round Lucy put in a hot one and punishing order. The occasion marked the entry into the professional ranks of round closed with no real hard blow struck. In the second round Lucy put in a hot one over the heart, but went down from a left swing, as he endeavored to get away. Brown missed a hard left, and Lucy planted brown missed a hard left, and Lucy planted two good ones on the wind, that evidently being his one objective point. At the open-ing of the third round Lucy shoved a fierce left in Brown's face, repeating it a moment later, but got a hard one on the body for his enterprise, and also a left on the jaw. Lucy was, however, the aggressor, and the round ended in his favor. The men mixed Lucy was, however, the aggressor, and the round ended in his favor. The men mixed it up from the start in the fourth round, Brown forcing the fighting, but missing several excellent chances in his anxiety. Lucy again and again put his fists on the wind, and poked Brown hard on the nose, drawing blood, having his man somewhat weak at the call of time. Brown began the fifth round by rushing Lucy to the ropes, but the smaller man planted his right on the sore nose with good effect. They then the sore nose with good effect. They then mixed it up, Lucy going for the wind and the damaged nose in fine style. At the gong both men were doing lively work. In the sixth and last round, Brown showed the efsixth and last round, Brown showed the effects of his punishment and became wild and careless. Lucy was very cautious and taking no chances pounded the bloody nose time and time again. Brown weakened rapidly, and just before the close of the round Lucy landed a rattling good one on the jaw, receiving a hot one in the face as the round closed. The fight was promptly awarded to the Baltimore man. awarded to the Baltimore man

At the call of time both boys indulged in much cautious sparring, but Glynn suddenly rushed Bateman to the ropes, banging him right and left. Bateman responded with a hot one on the body, and Glynn returned the compliment by hitting the Washington boy a savage blow over the left eye, raising a great lump. The second round opened with a lively exchange, Glynn putting another on Bateman's eye. They rushed together, and Bateman banged his opponent hard on the head, and then put rushed together, and Bateman banged his opponent hard on the head, and then put two fierce ones in the Wilmington bey's face, the round closing in Bateman's favor.

The two pugilists did better after this warning and really tried to hurt each other. Daly got decidedly the best of the exchanges, and had Young in a pretty bad way when the gong sounded. Daly got the decision. Young undertook to protest, but was hustled off the stage.

STORY OF CAPT. STUBBS.

He Tells of the Assault on His Sailors in San Domingo. The agents in New York city of the American schooner Henry Crosby have re-ceived the following letter from Capt. A. T. Stubbs of that schooner, dated December 10, at Azua, San Domingo, detailing the firing on American sailors related in the dispatches to yesterday's Star: "We arrived here yesterday, the 9th, at 2 p.m., and as we had not had any visit from customs officers up to today at 12 m., I told First Officer Brooks to take two men in the boat and go in near the beach, where I saw two men, and ask if this was the port of Asua. As there was not a house to be seen from the ship, I thought in where the two men were, within 200 or backbone. The mate received a flesh wound in the hip and had his face wounded he only saw one woman in the crowd on the beach and that there were at least twenty-five or thirty men, all soldiers. My sailors were frightened out of their wits and wanted me to weigh anchor and get away from here. I will be glad when I get back into God's country. Will close for tonight.

"9 p.m.—Since writing the above we have had a visit from twelve or fifteen soldiers and a pilot from Azua. We are about six miles, so the pilot says, from Azua.

"December 11—Arrived at Azua at noon. I have sent for a doctor. Smith seems nicely today. Hardly any fever, but, my, what a wound he has. As near as I can measure it it is seventeen inches from where it went in to where it came out. It was made by a .44-caliber builet. where it went in to where it came out. It was made by a .44-caliber bullet.
"December 12—Steamer sails this evening. I have taken my sick man on shore. We had to carry him about five miles on a stretcher. I would not take chances in such another affair for all the money in the United States treasury. It is a great relief to get that man off my hands."

At the Dominican consulate.31 Broadway. At the Dominican consulate, 31 Broadway, it was said that no information had been received of the affair, and pending its arrival no opinion could be given. DR. PARKHURST AND SHEEHAN.

The Police Commissioner Was Willing to Confer With the Reformer. Over his own signature, Police Commissioner John C. Sheehan of New York has come out and boldly announced that he was the high official referred to as one of the number making overtures to Rev. Dr. this in the language quoted. Parkhurst, anxious to assist the latter in exposing the rottenness of the department bailiff tugging at his side to induce him he is the party referred to, does not tell all the story in the statement given out. He does not, for instance, say that he made the overtures to Dr. Parkhurst practically on the suggestion of Richard Croker. Yet such is the fact.

Neither does he give the real reason for seeking the president of the Society for the Suppression of Crime. It was to the effect that the present officials have been placed in a false position. That in the fight to down Superintendent Byrnes by the police commissioners the former has the best of it should only come in for its share of censure from the time it has had absolute control of the police department. Croker wants the parties who had control before them to receive their share. This is the statement. ment in full given out by Commis Sheehan. "Possibly I am the high police official referred to as willing to furnish Dr. Park-hurst with information with regard to the department. The statements as given out, however, do not give an adequate idea of the situation.

"About ten days ago I made the remark "About ten days ago I made the remark to a friend that if Dr. Parkhurst really desired a complete inquiry into police affairs, I would gladly co-operate with him. A few days ago I said to this man that I would be glad to meet Dr. Parkhurst, and talk over the situation. As I said before, I was positive the other commissioners were all of the same mind. There was no thought on my part of supplying any information to him, and the suggestion that I was afraid of the issue of the present controversy is too ridiculous to be considered. My sole idea was to demonstrate to Dr. Parkhurst that his view of obstruction on the part of the police commissioners was based upon lack of knowledge of the real facts."

Just at the most interesting point Com-

favor of the Wilmington lad, who, however, seemed to be satisfied that he had already won the fight and that it was not necessary for him to force the fighting. The referee gave him the fight without a moment's hesitation. Glynn seemed to have escaped without a scratch, although he received many hard raps.

Daly Whips Young.

The bout between Young of this city and Daly of Wilmington was the next event on the program. It was somewhat of a disappointment and at times had the appearance of the real facts."

Just at the most interesting point Commissioner Sheehan stops short in his statement. He does not say why he did not meet Dr. Parkhurst. The fact is that the latter refused to meet him without first consulting his counsel, Lawyer Frank Moss. The latter believed a trap had been laid and said that Sheehan should only be seen at Dr. Parkhurst's own residence. Commissioner Sheehan offered to see them on neutral ground, but his offer was not accepted. Dr. Parkhurst said that he expected to confer with Mr. Sheehan some time in the near Pittsburg Papers Sued for Libel. Statements were filed yesterday in the suits for $50,000 damages in each case for alleged libel against the Dispatch Publishing Company, the Post Publishing Company, the Leader Publishing Company and the Chronicle-Telegraph Company entered by Tyndale Palmer, a former Philadelphia newspaper man. The alleged libel is contained in items published by the deway when the gong sounded. Daly got the decision. Young undertook to protest, but was hustled off the stage.

Last Event.

The last fight of the evening was no fight at all. Kelly of Wilmington undertook to spar eight rounds with Ford of Norfolk, at 126 pounds. The fight lasted thirty seconds, twenty of which were spent by Kelly trying to recover from two knock-down blows from his clever opponent. There was a brief exchange in which Kelly was hit so hard as to become dizzy. He staggered away and Ford ran up behind him and struck him a terrible blow on the point of the jaw. He

> Dr. A. W. Read committed suicide yesterday at Atlanta, Ga., by shooting himself in the head with a shotgun. Death self in the head with a shotgun. Death was instantaneous. Mrs. Read found her husband yesterday morning with a razor in his hand unbuttoning his collar. She knew what Dr. Read was contemplating, and persuaded him to abandon his purpose for the time. A little later he slipped up stairs and shot himself. He was born in Virginia seventy-four years ago. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and was a licensed preacher in the Baptist Church. Baptist Church.

The women were last seen alive on Saturday evening, when Mrs. Sloan admitted her sister Sarah to the house. When they if that was the port of Azua. As he undied, or whether their death occurred simultaneously, is only a matter of conjecture. Miss Lafferty made her home with her other sister, Mrs. Mary Coyle, and on Saturday evening she went to visit Mrs. Sloan. She said she would return home in the course of a few hours.

Mrs. Coyle did not worry over her sister's failure to return at the time she stated, thinking that her other sister might have thinking that her other sister might have asked Sarah to semain with her over hight. When, however, there were no signs of her Sunday and the following days, she entertained fears. Yesterday morning Mrs. Coyle decided not to wait longer and she journeyed to the house where the missing sister said she was going. When she reached the Burns street house she found it closed. She rang the bell a number of times, but no one responded. Mrs. Coyle then visited the residence of William H. Wilson, and informed him about her sister's continued absence.

Wilson had noticed that the house had not been open during the day, but he did not venture to force an entrance without first getting advice on the matter. He went there then with a constable. They broke open the front door, and on entering the parior they discovered the dead bodies stretched on the

There was no odor of gas in the house, and everything was in the usual order. The bodies were in fairly good condition. They had commenced to discolor, and from their appearance it is believed that the women had been dead more than three days. The bodies were subsequently conveyed to the morgue, where the post-mortem examinations were made.

LIKE AN ANIMAL AT BAY. Prendergast Wildly Denies the Charge of Malice. "I was not animated by malice, I sweat before high beaven that I was not. You are my murderer if I die." This was the impassioned language with which Prendergast interrupted Mr. Trude yesterday afternoon. It was the sensation of the trial of the assassin of Carter Harrison. For four hours Mr. Trude had been speaking, growing more and more earnest and personal. As the afternoon wore away he assailed the prisoner with all the invective that his vast resources in language could command. Looking the prisoner in the face, the orator moved closer to where the murderer sat. Mr. Trude intimated that the killing of Carter Harrison was the result of malice.

Springing to his feet the prisoner denied and punishing the offenders. These over- to sit down, with the look of a wild animal at bay upon his face, the appearance of the prisoner will long be remembered.

this same subject," said Mr. Trude to the jury, "that the prisoner had said that he was willing to do it over again."

"Is he insane now?" asked Mr. Trude, turning the exhibition made by the witness to instant account, and, proceeding to comment upon it, he also alluded to the day of the funeral and the fear the prisoner showed when the procession passed the jail and the prisoners shouted "Hang Prendergast." Mr. Trude said that even these men accused of crime resented the act of Prendergast, and the prisoner broke in with: "Yes, they were friends of Harrison whom he had pardoned out of the Bridewell."

Air. Trude proceeded to good the infuriated prisoner by alluding to him as a coward, and once more the man sprang to his feet and shouted: "You are the coward; you deserve to be hung." Then Judge Brentano interfered, saying, "Mr. Prendergast, you must keep quiet."

A moment later when the dart struck him in another place he roared, "I am able to fill over the said."

order to facilitate matters Mr. Trude offered to speak last evening, but the jury said that they would rather have the case adjourned until morning, and it was so ordered by the judge. This afternoon the judge will deliver his instructions to the jury and the fate of Prendergast will in a few hours thereafter be known.

SHE WANTS REVENGE.

The Widow of Capt. Hedberg Asks for an Investigation.

Mrs. Hedberg, the widow of Capt. Alfred Hedberg, who was shot at Fort Sheridan by Lieut. James Maney October 30 last, is visiting an old friend of her husband's in New York city. She is taking the first rest she has had since her husband was "murder ed,"as she claims he was.

She has been in Washington seeing officials of the War Department to move an investigation of the conduct of Col. R. E. A. Crofton, the post commander, who, she claims, acted as an attorney for the defense. She says he did not prefer charges against Lieut. Maney for ten days after to keep her from prosecuting the case; that he personally asked her not to press the charge, and that he said to her face while he was sorry poor Hedberg went out of the regiment by being killed, still he was glad he was out regiment by being killed, still he was glad he was out.

Mrs. Hedberg is a tall, fine-looking woman. She has large blue eyes, a pleasing though not classical face.

In 1873 Capt. Hedberg was dismissed on charges affecting his honor and honesty, and in split of that they succeeded in getting Congress to investigate the case, with the result that the committee found that the charges were false. President Cleveland sat up all night to examine the papers in the case, and returned Capt. Hedberg to his old regiment, the fifteenth infantry. Mrs. Hedberg showed a long letter from Gov. Knute Nelson of Minnesota, in which he assured her of his intense interest in her case, advised her whom to see in Washington and suggested that he should get up ington and suggested that he should get up a subscription among the Swedes of Minnesota to prosecute Lieut. Maney.

"I see that some of the sentries at Fort Sheridan are seeing the ghost of Capt. Hedberg," said she. "They'll see something worse than ghosts before I get through with them. And yet I don't want to be thought a vindictive, persecuting Nemesis. I am sorry for poor Jim Maney. He was a friend of my husband's. Some of the papers have said that my husband was jealous of him. That is not true. And the best proof of it is that I am seeking to avenge him and to clear his memory of the siurs that these people have thrown upon it. I feel that it is a work that God has laid upon me, for I have no brother or father living and the captain has no male rela-
